PEN AND SCISSORS.

Colorado has adopted the Australian ballot system, making the 30th State to accept the reform. Kentucky and Texas are required by their new constitutions to do the same thing.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts has overruled the exception in the case of Pamie J. Poor vs. J. Montgomery Sears, and sustained the verdict of $12,625 given Mis Poor for injuries by the fall of some shavings in a building owned by Sears, in 1887.

The effect of the continued floods in England is very marked. The river Thames, in some places, extends for a mile or so beyond its banks, and flat-bottomed boats are being used to convey people in the streets of Eton and Windsor.

James E. Graves, an employee of the Standard State Company in Boston, was accidentally locked into the steam room where barrel staves are seasoned, and literally cooked to death. Graves' body was one mass of blisters and his face scalded out of all semblance to humanity.

After thirty years' vain struggle against an adverse destiny the levantine steamship Great Eastern was beached on the shores of the Mersey, near Liverpool, and for many months past a dozen men have been knocking her to pieces. Her bones sold for $10,000.

Edison promises to run a railway train between Milwaukee and Chicago during the World's Fair at a speed of 100 miles an hour by his new electric motor. By his invention two pounds of coal will do the work of six with present appliances. He says the plant will not cost as much as the cable system.

Initiation gold is a new compound which was recently discovered, and which puzzles the best jewelers to detect. Its weight is that of gold, and the acid boils a trifle when applied to it, although when it is wiped off no spot is left. It is cheap and is easily worked. Its chief factor is aluminum composite, from five to eight per cent.

"Convent hair" is an article well-known to the trade and highly prized. When a young takes the veil in the Roman Catholic church her hair is cut off, and her tresses are sold for the benefit of the convent. As the hair is cut pretty close to the head, the tresses are usually long, and thus "convent hair" has a special value.

An eastern branch of Dr. Keely's Institute for the cure of alcoholism has been established at White Plains near New York. John P. Miles, L. D., writes to the North American Review, a narrative of his own personal experience of cure at the Institute in Dwight, Ill. He says he is satisfied that he is permanently cured of his appetite for intoxicants.

The giraffe is in danger of extinction. Ten years hence of seventy or eighty could be found, where today there would be a large herd. An African chieftain, however, Khama, has taken the giraffe under his protection, and preserves it, just as the Czar of Russia has preserved in a forest of Lithuania the European bison from extinction.

One of the signs of returning prosperity at the West is the payment of mortgage indebtedness in immense amounts. It is estimated by financiers that within the coming year the capitalists, the savings banks, and the insurance companies of New England and the Middle States will receive at least $200,000,000 in liquidation of Western mortgages.

Mr. C. Allard, a wealthy rancher in the Flathead country, Montana, has a herd of 47 fine buffaloes. There are 46 cows and one large bull, all magnificent, full-blooded bions. They are kept with the domestic cattle, and are herded with little trouble. It is not generally known that such a private herd of buffaloes is in existence. The superintendent of the Yellowstone Park said the other day that there are from 200 to 500 buffaloes in the park now, and they are increasing in number.

Dr. Brown-Sequard, in one of his lectures, dwells with much emphasis on the importance of general knowledge in the matter of checking coughing and sneezing. He states that coughing can be stopped by pressing on the nerves of the lips in the neighborhood of the nose, and sneezing may be stopped in the same way. Pressing in the neighborhood of the ear or right in front of the ear, may stop coughing. It is so also of hiccupping, but much less so than for sneezing or coughing. Pressing very hard on the roof of the mouth is also a means for arresting a cough, and the will is often found to be a wonderful preventative.

A new flag has been designed for the boards of trade of the cities along the Merrimac River, composed of several horizontal stripes, representing the seven cities on the Merrimac River, and showing the colors of the rainbow—red, orange; green, blue; yellow; indigo; violet, Newburyport. In the upper quarter, next to the staff, on a blue field, is shown the White Mountains and Lake Winnepesaukee, the source of the Merrimac River, and arched above the lake and mountain appears a rainbow. In all probability the growing center of manufacturing interests, Amesbury, will make necessary the addition of another stripe, of some combination color, like purple, for instance.

Capitula Collis, of the United States Fish Commission in his report on the New England Fisheries for 1888, which is just being published, makes one efficient point. The general impression has been that the proportion of aliens among our fishermen was very large. As a matter of fact, however, these statistics show that in 1888 there were 16,151 men employed on the fishing vessels of Massachusetts, and that 10,488 of these were Americans. This would make the percentage of aliens less than 40, and not 70 or 80, as many have claimed. Of the foreign-born, 2,388 were British provincial, or more than one-half. The change that is taking place in the vessels engaged in the several fisheries is well illustrated in the case of Massachusetts. The number of vessels engaged showed a decrease, but this was more than offset by the increase in the size and value of those engaged, the actual increase in that class of shipping being more than 500 tons.

At Portsmouth, Eng., on Thursday, an official trial was made of a boom designed for protection against torpedoes, and the results have proved of great interest in naval circles. The boom was moored across the channel, which is seventy feet wide, and secured between two lighters, the surface being covered with iron spikes so as to catch the bottom of the enemy's torpedo boats. Ten feet above, and parallel with the boom, was stretched a seven-inch wire hawser which was kept taut. A first-class torpedo boat, commanded by Lieutenant Sturdee with a crew of five men, whose lives had been insured by the admiralty, then started upon the hazardous attempt to pass the boom, and after a run of seven miles, Lieutenant Sturdee battered down the hatches, having set the crew below, and made a rush at the boom at full speed. On reaching the obstruction the torpedo boat was forced on the spikes where it remained firmly wedged, and from which all her engine power was unable to force her. The officials are congratulating themselves on the success of the experiment, the use of harbor booms as an efficient means of defense being considered proven beyond peradventure.

We want every mother to know that cramp can be prevented. True cramp never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness, then the child appears to have taken cold or a cold may have accompanied the hoarseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the cramp. The child is not at all when the first first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy would prevent the attack. Even after the rough cough has appeared, the disease may be prevented by using this remedy as directed. The only safe way is to keep a 50-cent bottle of the remedy in the house for use when ever the symptoms of the disease appear. For sale by T. G. Julian.

The Snow Leopard.

One of the best examples of adaptation to environment—in other words to the circumstances under which an organism lives—is seen in the snow leopard, or once, one of the great cats very rarely brought to Europe. Just as, in pre-historic times, the mammoth among elephants was clothed with wool and hair as a defense against the cold, so the once in the present day is a leopard specially adapted to live in a rigorous climate. Unlike the true leopard, it is confined to Asia, and is seldom found much below the snow line of the central highland region of that continent, though it has been found as far west as Smyrna. The adult male is from four to four and a half feet long, exclusive of the tail, which is about a yard, and is clothed in long, dense fur, which protects it from the effects of the low temperature of its habitat. The fur is pale yellowish-gray, with small, irregular spots on the head, cheeks, back of neck and limbs, and with dark rings on the back and sides; the under surface is whitish, with some large dark spots about the middle, and the rest unspotted. The ounce has never been known to attack man; it preys on wild and domesticated sheep and goats, and, like the true leopard, is extremely fond of dog flesh. A young specimen—the first brought alive to England—was recently exhibited at the Zoological Gardens, Regent's Park, but it unfortunately died a few weeks after its arrival.—[Cassell's Family Magazine.]

A Pit for Vegetables.

A pit which is accessible in all kinds of weather is a valuable adjunct to the kitchen garden; for, as a rule, vegetables keep much better and retain their flavor more perfectly when stored out-doors than when kept in the cellar. If the pit is so constructed that it can be readily entered, it will be of value to the house for storing many things which prove almost worthless if stored in the cellar. Last fall I made a pit as follows: A well-drained corner of the garden was selected and the pit dug 4x8 feet by 4 feet in depth. This was lined with one-inch chestnut boards, nailed to locust corner posts. The roof was made of heavy oak boards, having a pitch sufficient to shed the moisture as it drains through the soil. A single hole three inches square by twenty inches high is made in one of the lower corners of the roof. The earth that had been dug out was thrown upon the roof, forming a good sized frost-proof mound. A movable wire screen of half-inch mesh is fitted into the man-hole to keep out mice, rats, etc. A water-tight trap door closes the entrance; a short ladder is used in getting in and out. In this pit we have kept cabbage, turnips, beets, potatoes, celery, apples, etc., in the most excellent condition; the trap door had been propped open for ventilation nearly the whole winter. Nothing had been frosted or injured by the cold. As this pit is so simple and of easy construction, there is no reason why every garden should not have one.—[American Gardener.]

The smoke stacks on many ocean steamers are now built considerably higher than was previously the case. The object is to improve the draught of the furnaces, and this method is found to be most practical in its application. A new steamer, the Scot, of the Cape Mail line, is provided with smoke pipes 120 feet high above the grates, being the loftiest pipes ever put into a steamer. A draught of three-quarter inch water pressure is thus obtained, all the steam necessary is thus easily secured, and the use of fans is dispensed with. Her speed is nineteen knots.—[The Manufacturers' Gazette.]

This unique epitaph is said to be found in a California cemetery: Here lies the body of Joseph Humberick, who was accidentally shot on the bank of the Pecos river by a young man. He was accidentally shot with one of the large Colt's revolvers with no stopper for the cock to rest on. It was one of the old-fashioned kind—brass mounted. And of such is the kingdom of heaven.

Change the Water in Flower Vases.

A lady visitor, at a home of wealth and taste, noticed that the water in the vases was impure, and, as she tells the Tribune, "knowing by experience how field and offensive water becomes from decaying stems of plants, I spoke to my friend on the subject, believing that the standing water in so many open receptacles was positively unhealthful. 'How often do you clean the vases?' completely, James F. the hostess inquired. 'We wash everything once a week, ma'am,' he answered respectfully; 'the rest of the time I only take out the flowers that are faded and replace them with fresh ones.' Just take out the water, directed, pointing to a big yellow bowl filled with purple lilies. As he lifted the wet mass from the dish the odor was so sickening that it filled the whole room. Now here, I thought, is surely a question for a physician, and yet I have never heard it mentioned. Wherever houses are profusely decorated with flowers, this stagnant water is presumably standing constantly in living rooms, and people are continually breathing what, even out of doors, under the fresh winds of heaven, is generally accounted unhealthful."

It is said that San Francisco is after the National Democratic Convention, and in order to secure it she will offer to pay the railroad fare and hotel bills of the party. This is the way they do things on the Pacific coast.

Nineteen miners went to their death down a shaft at the Ausimino mine, on Wednesday. The mine by which the cage was lowered broke, precipitating the men to the bottom of the shaft. Seventeen were killed outright and two others fatally injured.

A mob of 3000 men surrounded the city and county jail, Kansas, Wednesday night, in a determined effort to secure Dan McLean, a brute who had murdered his nine-month-old child. Only the intelligent fore-sight of the officials saved the wretch from the fate he so richly deserved.

As a result of the long dry spell, there has been no log tide in the river for a long time and the mills at Ford have stopped running for want of timber. As a large number of families are dependent on these mills for the means of support, long continuance of drought would mean great inconvenience if not actual suffering.—(Winchester Democrat).

Last Tuesday Nelson Hallon, of Mendota county, was at work felling a tree and in some way he threw it so it fell on him, crushing him to death. He was a good citizen and an honorable and highly respected man, just in the prime of life, being about 45 years of age. He was buried on Wednesday at Frenchburg by the Masonic Lodge, of which order he was a member.

Lee Fisher's barber shop is the place to go for a first-class hair-cut or a nice, smooth shave. He employs none but first-class workmen and guarantees satisfaction in every respect. One of the best evidences of the good work done in his shop is that his customers will go nowhere else once they have tried him. Remember the place—Mayaville street, under Green, Clay & Chenault's store. 14-2t

Judge B. J. Peters celebrated his 80th birthday on Tuesday last, November 3d. A few of his friends were with him to enjoy a beautiful repast and wish him many years of usefulness. To our greeting of a day or two ago "How are you, Judge?" he answered: "Mrs. Peters says I am well, and she never tells anything but truth." His form is still erect and his step more elastic than many men of fifty.

On next Court-day, between the hours of 10 and 2 o'clock, all persons desiring to consult with the general agent of the Hurst Home Insurance Company will find him at the Advocate office. The farmers who are interested in this enterprise would do well to call and see Mr. Hurst. He organized the company and drafted its government, hence can explain everything about it. The company is still booming and promises enormous strength.

Lost—Dogs.

Strayed or stolen from my place on the Kiddville pike, on Thursday, November 5th, a pointer bitch with white body, liver colored head and white stripe down forehead and nose, a liver colored spot on her right side and a short tail; also a pointer dog with white body, solid liver colored head and a liver colored spot at the root of tail. Any information that will lead to their recovery will be liberally rewarded. Wm. Monroe, Mt. Sterling, Ky.

The New "Private Secretary."

The new "Private Secretary" was the attraction at the Capital Theatre yesterday afternoon and night. Good houses greeted the performances at both appearances. The performances were all that could be desired, and the auditors applauded to the echo. It was "laugh" from beginning to end. Not a detail was omitted which would contribute to the pleasure of the house. The crowd went to laugh, and they did. The principal was good, and his support equally as efficient. There was not a "star" in the company, but all did their work sufficiently that the crowd voted them all stars. It was an exceptionally good performance of a good play and everybody was satisfied.—Arkansas Gazette, Nov. 1st, 1891.

J. Lawrence White has been tendered and has accepted the position as cashier of the Farmers Bank of Beatyville. He will leave on Thursday to enter upon his duties. Lawrence White is one of the brightest young men ever raised in our community, strictly moral and upright with hands so clean that no money will stick to them that he is not honestly his own. His education is first-class, his information extensive and his business training of the best. He goes to his new position with all the elements that would seem to guarantee success. To those among whom he goes we cordially commend him as in every way worthy of their confidence and esteem.

Last evening an audience that filled every seat in the Opera House witnessed the presentation of Wm. Gillet's masterpiece of modern comedy, "The Private Secretary," by the company under the direction of Mr. Edwin Travers. The cast was in every way worthy the hearty reception given them by our best theatre-goers last night. The play is one that has been presented before in Mt. Sterling, but seems to grow in popularity with each representation. It is bright, quick and enormously funny, holding closely the attention of the audience throughout its entire length. It is difficult to give praise impartially where the cast is so evenly balanced as the Travers company, but the Rev. Robert Spaulding of Mr. Wm. Fairbanks, certainly merited special commendation while the Catermole of Harry Eyring, the Gibson of E. J. Mack, the Douglas of Edwin Travers, the Miss Ashford of Bertha Livingston, and the Edith of Miss Violet Black, won great favor with the audience; in fact the entire cast was excellent.—Oil City Bazaar.

On Friday evening of last week (Maj. H. T. Stanton, of Frankfort, most delightfully entertained a large audience of our people at the new Opera House with a lecture, interspersed with readings from his own writings. Maj. Stanton was happily introduced by Judge J. H. Hazelrigg to the largest audience we have ever seen attend an entertainment of the kind in our city, and those who were there were not disappointed in the expectation of a rare literary treat. A number of the good women of our city (God bless them) there are plenty of them in our midst, seeing that the V. M. C. A. needed some help in fitting up a set of rooms here, have agreed to furnish the reading room for them, and this was the beginning of their work in this direction. They secured Maj. Stanton's services, and the pleasure he gave his audience was proof sufficient of the wisdom of their selection. We must not neglect to mention the fact that a number of gentlemen and ladies among our home talent furnished delightful music for the occasion. Prof. E. S. Fogg, of Covington, kindly lent his services as leader.

A dastardly attempt was made to wreck a train on the N. N. & M. V. R. L. on Mr. Thos. Calk's place, west of the city, some time Saturday night. Early Sunday morning Mr. Calk had occasion to go up the road to a distant portion of his farm, and discovered, lying piled on the track, a number of large rocks strewn at irregular intervals of some fifty yards. He notified some of the railroad hands and had them removed. Fortunately no train passed in the darkness after they were placed there. This is the second attempt made by some dastardly villain near the same place, within a short time.

A Rare Treat.

The bachelor teachers of the K. T. S. are proud to acknowledge an exceptionally fine serenade, rendered Friday night last by young ladies more or less connected with the school. We were peacefully engaged in the innocent and intellectual game of crokinole, when suddenly, without warning or opportunity for defense on our part, there arose a manifold wall as from four thousand souls in the throes of Gehenna. In our own yard and the one adjacent, it was like a multitude of the great Kilkenny cat fight, which was such a howling success that two contestants ate each other "bodaciously" up—nothing being left but two tails. In this unapproachable medley of melodies, we caught a pathetic and touching refrain somewhat like this—

"He didn't diddle at in the corner, The cow was eating the moon; He put in his thumb and took out the dish what a great boy and I."

Dave fell on my neck and wept, while I reached for the water pitcher. Just as I threw it I heard a moan under the bed—"Pass on Gabriel, for the Lord's sake. I didn't do it." It was Andy. The water had some effect, for soon a patter of little feet on the pavement like a regiment of cavalry told us the wicked had ceased from troubling, and the weary were at rest. Mr. Winder had not been asleep ten minutes when I heard him murmur, "What strange things we see when we have no guns!"

PERSONAL.

Mrs. W. H. Smith spent last week in Clark County, visiting her mother.

Mrs. Mary Collins, of North Middleton, is visiting Mrs. J. D. Harper of this city.

Rev. Joseph Rand and family, of Lexington, visited Mrs. Naumie White the past week.

T. L. Porter and wife, of Prestenberg, are visiting the family of T. I. Ritchey, of this county.

Mrs. Col. J. T. Hazelrigg and daughter, Mrs. E. C. Orear are visiting friends at West Liberty.

"Uncle" Jim Jones leaves today for McIntosh Florida, to spend the winter with his niece, Mrs. Jennie Allen.

Miss Mary Conroy has resumed her position in J. E. Queen's store, where she will be glad to see her friends.

Capt. Dan Turney of Paris, the cleverest man of all, was in the city Friday, looking up some of his old friends and making new ones.

John W. Skillman, of North Middleton, was in the city last Wednesday. He was accompanied by his beautiful daughter, of whom he is justly proud.

Misses Mattie Masterson and Mattie Driskill, two bright and beautiful young ladies of Ripley, Ohio, who have for two weeks past been visiting Mrs. W. A. Boyd, near Somerset, returned home yesterday.

J. W. Wilson, Dr. L. Smith, H. K. Green, John Holliday and Joseph Gast attended the tobacco sale the past week, at Louisville. They report a poor market, and whilst they sold some tobacco, the prices realized were low.

Percy Adamson left last week for a winter's stay in Florida. His health has been very indifferent for sometime past. His friends here know him as a most excellent young man, whose correct work has won him the esteem of the community, and all hope he will come back to us well and strong.

No Time to be Wasted.

While times seem a little dull, in order to start things to moving along, I will sell anything in the jewelry line at very close figures. Just look at prices quoted:

3 oz. Silverware Watches, 11 jewels, $3.50; Gold filled Watches, from $12.50 to $25.00; Rolled gold plated chains, guaranteed, $1.50 to $3.00; Walnut clocks, $2.25 to $3.50. Come and I will convince you I will sell you at a bargain.

THOS. WHITE.

Mr. E. T. Ship, near Paris, Ky., was found unconscious in his stable on Friday evening. He died in a few minutes after being found. Death resulted from a stroke of apoplexy.

The inimitable Bill Nye, together with his running mate, A. P. Burbank, held forth last evening at the new Opera House. A fair sized audience did the laughing act for them to perfection.

Judge Lindsay says that the new Constitution will not prevent Bourbon and Bath counties taking a vote on another subscription to the Kentucky Midland road, and that a new proposition will be submitted to Bourbon.—(Kentuckian-Citizen).

There is an uncredited report that the United States war ship Baltimore has been sunk in the harbor of Valparaiso, Chili, by torpedo boats of that government. There is very little probability that there is the least truth in the story, as the War Department has no knowledge of the fact.

The drought still continues with us and the complaints of the farmers about the lack of stock water are becoming grievous, some of them being compelled to haul water quite a distance. In the city many cisterns are entirely empty and a fire would prove very disastrous should it get under headway before the fire department could get to work.

We are informed that Conrad Hollman, a resident of Mattie Lee, a suburb of the city, has of late been indulging in the marital pastime of whipping his wife. A few nights ago he filled up on mean whiskey, came home and gave his wife and daughter a fearful beating. Sunday night some parties, presumably his neighbors, tiring of his abuse of his family, took him out and gave him a taste of his own medicine, assuring him that if his offense was ever repeated he would fare much worse next time they took him in hand.

Sharpshurg Items.

It is a little quiet in town, week.

Mrs. M. E. Wood is occupying new residence.

The Post-office has been removed to its new quarters.

Does Ben Harrison read the handwriting on the wall.

Sharpshurg has now a building and loan association.

The more intelligent the farmers become, the freer they will be.

Several of our young ladies went out gathering "autumn leaves" last week.

Mr. Tollie Young has improved his residence very much by the addition of a new kitchen and cellar.

John Kraycraft and Miss Rebecca Chafin, young people of the Sharpshurg neighborhood, went to a dance, O. last Wednesday, and married. Next!

The first snow of the season fell last Tuesday. There was not much of it, but a few flakes fell about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Work on the new Christian church is progressing nicely. When completed it will have the tallest spire in town, so far as elevation is concerned.

Don't forget that the farm of J. Clyde Nelson and J. T. Jones, containing 175 acres, will be sold to the highest bidder next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, on the premises.

Miss Mary Turner, of San Louis Potosi, Mexico, is here on a visit to her mother. Miss Turner is a teacher in a mission school at San Louis Potosi, and during her sojourn in Mexico she has learned to speak the Spanish language fluently. We are happy to say she will be here until December 16.

Like a drowning man grasping at a straw our Republican friends gloat over the barren victory in Ohio. Nevertheless, the glorious Democratic victories in New York, Massachusetts and Iowa, indicate that the so-called g. o. p. is doomed to defeat in 1892. A Democratic president will be inaugurated on March 4th, 1893, and don't you forget it! HENOS.

At this season of the year people can not be too careful about keeping their bowels regular. Bilious and malarial diseases are often brought on by allowing the bowels to become torpid. An occasional dose of St. Patrick's Pills is all that would be required, and might prevent serious sickness. For sale by T. G. Julian.

For sore throat.—Saturate a flannel bandage with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bind it on the throat. It will cure any ordinary case in one night's time. For sale by T. G. Julian.

THE ADVOCATE.

All About Porcupines.

There has been considerable talk in our paper on the habits of the American porcupine. Now, I was a land appraiser for the Fox and Wisconsin Improvement Companies of Wisconsin, and trapped in the northwest corner of that State, and I think I met this wood hog in very many of his habitats, and I know something about the critter. Why, he will eat anything that any hog will, and more. He is a thief by night around your camp, will carry off your axes and hammers the handles thereof (for the use of the twenty hand, presumably), gnaw all the stumps from your axholes, and if you get into your cabin in your absence, good bye to everything in the soft line—skins, furs, even to greasy overalls. The last one that visited our cabin had a picnic. We proposed to break camp that afternoon, and had got out the remnants of our larder, previous to packing up, when we were called off for an hour or two. When we got back two of the racials were just emerging from the cabin with plecthoric stomachs. Upon entering we discovered that the flour, pork, and about a quarter-pound of coffee were gone, and only a small string of onions left. Innocent hump, but a perfect nuisance around camp where you have to lock every thing up or hang it high and dry.

But as to their habits. In northern Wisconsin we found that almost invariably during the winter they fed on the tender buds of the hemlock and the linden or basswood, skimming for a week or ten days at a time on one tree and then crossing to the other. Their gullies or tracks through the snow could be found in every man's reaction and they invariably led to and from these trees to their den or nest under a stump or hole in the rocks. We could always find one of them lying out on a limb of one of the other of these trees. An old Indian that was camped (if his habitat could be called such) near us one winter was too naturally tired to hunt deer, of which there were plenty in the neighborhood; but he could easily find the trail of a porcupine; and it is said that he absolutely ate more than sixty of these stinking animals during the season.

Stick your nose once into a porcupine's nest toward spring and it would be enough. They are a species of hog. Scald off the hair and quills and you have a little pig to all appearances. Looks like, too. A kind of fat and of fat before reaching the meat, but of so rank a flavor that none but a starving man could tolerate it for a moment. We have in our experience been driven to great extremities, when, crows, hawks and owls comparatively fair soured; but porcupine flesh, when I would starve first. We have tried it, and the meat, ill-flavored flesh in the world is the American porcupine as we found it.

Why, the only thing about them worth a continental is a few of their broken quills for the squaws to work up to sell women or tenderfoot. And these same quills are a big nuisance sometimes, for we had one driven through our moccasins into the sole of my foot. We pulled it out with a pair of bullet moulds, (the whole of it, we supposed), but the foot festered and was very sore for several days, when it got perfectly well. A year afterward a cat-bell, as we thought, was found on our thigh. It was quite painful, and our canvas trousers continually caught on it. One evening, after being annoyed considerably during the day from the friction, we made careful examination and discovered a point of something protruding from the apex of our little cat-bell. Upon applying the bullet-moulds a good half inch of one of the quills was drawn out. A quill, as you know, has a sharp point, guile-like, like the beard of wheat. After the first penetration of the skin, every motion of the body will cause it to work its way farther in. We have known dogs to have these quills work through their jaws and neck, and I am informed even through their heads. We had suffered no inconvenience or pain whatever from this piece of quill for more than a year, showing conclusively that in its travels it had once fastened itself to the easy road of flesh which the doctors say has no feeling, and, that feeling is confined to the nerves and muscles lying between the skin and flesh, or between the flesh and bone of humanity, and I presume of animals as well. No sir; we have a very poor opinion of the American porcupine as we found him and don't want any of him in ours.—Forest and Stream.

Agricultural Notes.

Returns indicate a moderate apple crop.

The pear crop taken as a whole represents about the usual average.

Lovett's Best is one of the promising new varieties of blackberries.

The indications are that the onion crop is about the same as last year.

Fall and Winter pears may be kept a long time if placed in a dark, cool spot.

It is reported that Nebraska will make 6,000,000 pounds of beet sugar this year.

The Kansas sorghum sugar crop will, it is believed, reach at least 3,000,000 pounds.

Earliness and productiveness are features claimed for the new grape, Early Ohio.

How can surface feeding plants take fertilizers six inches or more below the reach of their roots.

Without shade and moisture, the nitrogen in the soil returns to the great fountain in the atmosphere.

Forest fires have wrought destruction in different parts of Wisconsin, Michigan and northwestern Minnesota.

The Farm Journal reminds its readers that shortening of the new growth in summer and fall tend to make a tree fruitful.

New York claims to have had this season 30,000 acres devoted to hops. The Farmers' Review places the product of the State at 90,000 bales.

If you have allowed the manure to accumulate in the barnyard, better get that out before doing the fall plowing, then the yard will be clean if it should freeze up when you do not expect it.

Overfeeding the cow tends to poverty. Not only is the superfluous food wasted, but the overloading of the stomach tends to derange the whole system and decrease both the secretion of both fat and milk.

It is the little things that have much to do with the successful sale or even the keeping of butter. Except when the butter is to be packed in stoneware crocks it should always be packed with parchment paper. This applies whether the butter to be packed is to be put on the market or kept for home.

Hoard's Dairyman says: "The cow is winning her way into the hearts of the Southern people. One instance in proof thereof is the first consignment of cheese ever received in St. Louis from Arkansas, which reached that market lately from the Grand Prairie Dairy Company, at Stuttgart, Ark."

The French Government, in order to encourage horse breeding, buys the best stallions and charges a fee of perhaps $3 of their service. While no national interference with the enterprise of those who are engaged in breeding and standing good horses is desirable in this country, there is one regulation that might be adopted by the State authorities, and that is to prevent unsound and worthless stallions from doing business. In this country a service fee no higher than twice that exacted by the French government is generally a mark of an inferior horse. Such horses get poor colts, and you can sell them cheap.—National Stockman.

STATE OF KENTUCKY,
MONTGOMERY COUNTY, ss.

This day personally appeared before me, a Justice of the Peace in and for the county and State aforesaid, Henderson Phillips, who made oath that two stray steers about four years old each, one a pale red, will weigh about 1,400 lbs., the other, dark red, will weigh about 1,600 lbs., neither of them having ear marks or brands, were taken up by Henderson Phillips, near his farm, on the 19th of September, 1891. I further certify that I have personally examined the said strays and value them at eighty dollars. The taker-up of said strays, Henderson Phillips' residence is near Stepietown Station, Montgomery county, Kentucky. This notice has been duly recorded in my office, and a copy thereof delivered to said Henderson Phillips. This 6th day of October, 1891.

Nature's Boarding Houses.

But perhaps the most curious, though not uncommon boarding house is that of the sea anemone. The sea anemone's house is, in the general plan, a fleshy bag standing on its flattened bottom and with the open end for a mouth. The mouth is surrounded by one or many rows of tentacles, or arms, which are very sensitive and armed with myriad microscopic poison darts along their sides. When anything living comes within the reach of these waving arms they close upon it and soon sink it to death. Then they pass it down into the bag, which acts as its stomach. In fact, it is practically all stomach. Nevertheless, some little fish have learned how to get into the bag unharmed by the murderous arms. There they find a safe home and a bounteous table, writes Frederic Gardner, Jr., in Far and Near.

The jelly fish is a floating bag whose transparent flesh, though firm, is nearly 99 per cent. water. (Much to my surprise on tasting one once I found it salt water, too!) When the colored eggs are forming they look very pretty through the clear body. It is also armed with poison darts like the sea anemone, to whose family he belongs. Some of the larger ones can give severe stings to bathers and are to be avoided. These can generally be known by their darker color and long red, "streamers." Under their dangerous bell-fishes and other animals swim and receive their share of the food of all kinds captured by their host jelly fish. I think no more charming accommodation could be asked. A cool crystal palace over your head, protection from all ordinary enemies, plenty of food and nothing to do but swim along the same leisurely rate as your host—an ideal sort of summer home.

The sea-cucumber (holothuridae) keeps quite a hotel, some transients and some boarders. His popular name comes from his resemblance in shape to a cucumber, though in color he generally resembles the sand in which he lies buried and on which he feeds. He is a near relative of the earth-cucumber, which is so destructive to our oysters; but from his appearance and habits you would never suspect it. He looks like a dainty bag with a tough leathery skin, and he lives altogether on nothing more repulsive than sand. Yet with what seems so poorly provided a table as the organic particles in sand he has a great many boarders. Many pretty little fishes, looking like a conjurer's sword, long, slender and scaly, live in one part of his body, and little "pig-eared" in another, while other varieties are often found with them. It reminds one of table d'hôte at a large hotel, when a good meal of rich sand is found and all have their share.

We find fishes living in the capacious mouth of the clumsy "goose-fish" or angler." He appears to be made up of a mouth spliced on to a tail, with the body between left out. The mouth is very broad and opens very wide, so that he is about the shape of a triangle with a mouth for a base. When he goes fishing he buries himself in the sand with his jaws set open just above it, looking like an innocent hole under a rock. One of the spines of his back fin is long and flexible, and has a little tassel of silver threads on the end looking like a small fish. This he hangs forward over the open mouth, and when a fish darts at it for a meal, the great mouth, with a fearful-looking row of back-pointed teeth, shuts down with a snap and there is no escape. Inside the little boarders swim in safety, and have their share of the successful "angler's" catch.

THE ADVOCATE.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The firm of Thomas Dana & Co., wholesale grocers of Boston, has dissolved, owing to the Maverick Bank complications.

The control of the Baltimore Sugar Refinery has passed into the hands of a syndicate of New York and Boston capitalists.

The New York Presbytery on Wednesday promptly accepted Prof. B. A. Briggs of the charges of heresy preferred against him some time since.

Charles Morton Stewart has been elected President of the Board of Trustees of Johns Hopkins University, in place of Judge George W. Dobbin, deceased.

Ladies of Dublin will present a silver mounted whip to young Mc Dermott, who whipped Tim Healy for an alleged insult on Mrs. Parnell and Miss Parnell.

Examiner Ewer reports that there is now $2,500,000 in cash in the Maverick Bank vaults and collections still coming in. Much of the paper assets will prove available and marketable.

A flock of about forty wild geese spent Friday night in a wheat field near Guthrie, and destroyed an acre or more of wheat just peeping through the ground. [Hopkinsville Kentuckian.]

Judge Talnor has decided that wholesale liquor dealers located outside of Connecticut can not sell liquor in that State without taking out a license in each county where the liquor is to be sold.

Six notices of intention to contest the right of seats in the new national House of Representatives have been forwarded to the Clerk of the House. Three of the contestants are Republicans and three Democrats.

The Washington National Bank, of Boston, will not sign the agreement of the Boston Banks to assess themselves 3 per cent. of their loans to relieve the depositors of the Maverick Bank. The other banks will probably all sign.

A special from Waco, Texas, says a disastrous collision has occurred on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, a few miles south of Waco. Section 2 of a stock train ran into the rear of Section 1, causing the death of four stock men and the serious injury of the engineer of Section 2.

Whiskey will be assessed at $8 per barrel this year, that figure having been fixed upon by the Committee on valuation, composed of the State Auditor, State Treasurer and Secretary of State. This is less than 20 cents per gallon. The receipts from this source of revenue amount to about $28,000 a year.

The President, it is said, has offered Senator Hisecock, of New York, the war portfolio, vacant by Secretary Proctor's resignation, and providing the Legislature is Republican, Hisecock is to be rewarded for his sacrifice by being made Senator. Hisecock denies that a tender of the position has been made him.

The Kentucky Association of Lexington made an assignment on Wednesday to Gen. Robinson, Louis Strauss and Richard Stoll. The liabilities are $62,000 and the assets more than sufficient to meet them. The property, if cut into lots, it is said will bring more than $100,000. The Association had made an effort to increase its membership and thus raise money sufficient to pay off its floating indebtedness. Failing in this, it was attempted to make a sale to the Trotting Horse Association, but the terms could not be agreed upon, and since suit had been brought against the Association, an assignment was the best thing under the circumstances.

Among the personal effects belonging to the estate of the late Isaac Kimberlin, of Scott county, (Ind.), are upward of 1,500 old American newspapers, printed from seventy-five to one hundred and fifty years ago. Most of them are New England papers, printed in colonial days. The lot, together with a large number of old pamphlets, circulars, maps and valuable manuscripts, which the deceased had a fancy for collecting, have been sold to the Hon. Wm. H. English, who will make liberal use of them in preparing his forthcoming history of Indiana.

Farmers should be on guard against a class of sharks who are doing a thriving business in Southern Indiana in organizing purchasing companies. These rasals offer to sell goods to farmers at wholesale prices, charging them $5 as an initiatory fee which makes them members of the company. They are shrewd in their transactions and represent that farmers are being cheated by local dealers, and after they have initiated a farmer they take his note for $80 for a bill of goods which they claim will cost at retail at least $125. Many victims have been robbed of hundreds of dollars in this way. [Louisville Times.]

The released convicts from the Briceville mines are being reacquainted and returned to Nashville. Every train almost from Kentucky and east Tennessee brings in its quota. It is said Gov. Buchanan will return the convicts to the mines, build heavier stockades for their confinement, and place them under strong military guard. The free miners not content with what they have done, are further complicating matters by going on a strike. Those at the "Elizabethe" mine went out on Thursday because a check weighman was not at once given them in accordance with their demands. Those at Jellico and Newcomb also threaten to quit.

The members of the bar of Memphis, Tenn., are very indignant because Judge Dubose, of the Criminal Court, on Thursday sent Col. George Gautt to jail for half an hour, because he would not stop speaking when ordered by him. Col. Gautt was defending a negro, and the jury came in convicting his client. He rose to make a motion for a new trial, and Judge Dubose refused to hear him, ordering him to quit, which order he disobeyed. He refused to make an apology to the court when released, saying he was only doing his duty by his client. It is said steps will be taken to have the Judge impeached.

Grain Notes.

Kentucky produced about 12,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, which is probably the largest crop that she has ever raised.

Three cents will cover the fluctuations in the local wheat market in the last two months.

There is more uncertainty about the size of the corn crop of the country than usual at this period of the year.

The two Dakotas, with a total wheat crop of 75,100,000 bushels, will average more than 100 bushels for every man, woman and child in the two States. They raise nearly as much wheat as all England, with her 26,000,000 people. A few years ago, before the separation, they raised 52,000,000 bushels, and that is their next best record.

Of course the size of the export to Europe will be a great factor in determining the price of wheat this winter. But those who calculate should not forget that Europe's takings will not be regulated by her wants, but by her ability to purchase. This is an important provision.

It is probable that Iowa will lead the States in the production of corn, with a yield in the neighborhood of 300,000,000 bushels, and Kentucky will be well up, with about 80,000,000 bushels. Away back before the war, Kentucky was the leading corn growing State of the Union, whence we got our name, Iron Crackers, but with the opening of the immense prairies of the West it was impossible for Kentucky to maintain her position.

The corn exports are not growing, as some think they should. The Europeans do not take kindly to corn bread, and they cannot afford to import corn as food for their farm beasts.

The gradual decline in the price of corn has been coequal with the gradual increase in the estimates of the corn crop.

Rye is not receiving much attention just now. But rye has never been an important crop in this country.

With a heavily increased oat crop it is natural that prices should be low.

The Southern States make a comparatively good showing in the wheat totals—that is, compared with former years—for outside the northern tiers of Southern States very little wheat is raised there. [Courier-Journal.]

Charles B. Hanford, the leading man formerly with Booth and Barrett has purchased from the Barrett Estate all the scenery, costumes, property, &c., of the Booth and Barrett production of "Julius Caesar," and will star next season, playing the part of Marc Antony exclusively.

County Superintendent's Report.

District No. 18, Oak Valley—Reports 64 children; draws $144.64; Trustees, Jno. McPherson, Jas. Conkright and Hugh Pasley, all of whom visit the school very seldom and seem to take very little interest in the school anyway; really, this is one of the very poorest schools in the county; the house is worth about thirty dollars and the furniture about five; required the value of Miss Eva McKinney's school? The teacher is very zealous, indeed, but the whole surroundings seem to be against a good school; Children do not feel like trying to do much in such a house and with such furniture; highest number in school, 26; lowest, 7; present, 15; in practical arithmetic Eddie Garrett; primary, Jennie West, Lillie McPherson, Leo Cory, very good.

District No. 27, Howard's Mills—Miss Sallie Berkley the efficient teacher; her first school; district very much pleased; reports 56 children; draws $126.56; highest number at school, 28; lowest, 15; present, 21; the house is in very good repair now; lots of nice wood, and the fires made early by one of the boys; the brag history class is to be found here; Trustees, Wm. Anderson, Mr. Patton and Thos. Barnes; they visit school occasionally; the children are kept busily employed and they are all doing well; there are a few people living near school house who are not attending; look them up!

District No. 15, Bailey's Institute—J. J. Shroat, teacher; is young, but very energetic; the house is very poor, indeed, and very little furniture; reports 45 children; draws $101.70; Trustees, Wm. George, Wm. Thompson and R. Montjoy; seldom visit the school; no good wood; highest number at school, 25; lowest, 10; present, 18; school began August 10.

District No. 20, Gunn Grove—Mrs. Emma Walker, teacher; she is giving entire satisfaction, and has added much to the school interest here; the average attendance better than ever before and census reports less. Reports 88 children in district; draws $108.88; highest number, 52; lowest, 32; house is a large frame, and with a little work some of the larger cracks can be closed; needs new floor and a water bucket badly; Trustees, Geo. W. Ficklin, Jas. Welsh and Madison Willoughby; school began July 13th and will close in November; patron should supplement fund and continue till the close of the year.

District No. 25, Plum Lick—Miss Cora Northcutt, teacher; ten months' experience, and I think, is doing the very best she can; district reports 73 children; draws $104.93; highest number at school, 23; lowest, 4; present, 17; this school should be one of the very best in the county; good house; nice new furniture; good stove; good blackboard, etc.; on good pike and 23 the highest number. Now, who are the Trustees? Jno. G. Crouch, Mr. Banister and some other one. They seem to forget that when the attendance is small it makes the cost of tuition per child appear large.

Louisville Tobacco Marke, Furnished by Glover & Durratt—Louisville Tobacco Warehouse.

Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 1,817 hhd., with receipts for the same period of 358 hhd.; sales on our market since Jan'y 1st, amount to 140,065 hhd. Sales of the crop of 1890 on our market to this date 98,021 hhd.

The offerings have been light on our market this week and there is no material change to note in prices, but the general tendency has been toward an improvement. Quite a little lot of tobacco has been sold during the week at prices ranging from $25 to $30. Only a few hogheads of the new crop have come forward as yet, but the prices realized for such this week have been at better figures than was realized for the first sales of the new crop. The following quotations fairly represent our market for our old burley:

Trash (dark) or damaged tobacco, $2 to $3.
Colony trash - - - - - $3 to $6.
Common lugs not colony, - $3 to $4.
Colony lugs, - - - - - $4 to $10.
Common leaf, - - - - - $5 to $7.
Medium to good leaf, - - - $7 to $12.
Good to fine fillers, - - - $12 to $25.
Select wrappry tobacco, - $22 to $33.
